Gallery 924 Presents The Button Show: TINY Wearable Art

June 7 - July 19

INDIANAPOLIS— Gallery 924 at the Arts Council of Indianapolis will present thousands of original artworks via 1¼ inch buttons as a part of its two-month extended summer exhibition, The Button Show: Tiny Wearable Art.

Gallery 924 expects to display more than one thousand artworks by 115 central Indiana artists. Works range in price from $5 - $25 and include various media, both 2D and 3D, all on 1¼ inch wearable, pin-back buttons. For this unique summer exhibition, Gallery 924 sought submissions from artists, graphic designers, illustrators, fashion designers, writers, poets, etc. The show includes artists from past Gallery 924 solo exhibitions, a number of well-known Indianapolis artists as well as new to the scene emerging artists.

Gallery 924 has made button culture a signature part of their patron experience for years by creating custom buttons for every exhibition. The Button Show will take that commitment to the next level by giving everyone the opportunity to own (and wear) beautiful, provocative, meaningful original artwork.

“One of the great joys of running a gallery and working with artists is the exuberance with which artists take on a project. The idea of creating art this small is slightly problematic, but true to form, artists have taken on this challenge in the most interesting, fantastical, and creative ways. The variety of media and approaches to this show is fascinating and we hope provides hundreds of guests with the ability to own original artwork,” said Shannon M Linker, Director of Gallery 924.

The Button Show will open for First Friday on Friday, June 7, from 6 - 9 pm. Additionally, Gallery 924 will offer a closing reception for patrons to pick up their purchased artworks and meet the artists on Friday, July 19, from 5 - 7 pm.
